LABOR SPEAKS FOR ITSELF.

THE EVENING WORLD believes that Labor can speak for itself better than anybody else can speak for it.

To afford Labor the opportunity to do this we shall publish a series of articles from day to day by the leaders of the different trades unions and other organizations. They will describe the condition, outlook and needs of the different trades as seen by their representative men.

The first of these appears to-day, written by EDWARD FINKELSTONE, President of the National Barbers' Union.

THE PEOPLE LIKE IT.

Old Roman Thurman is too "ugly honest" to be really popular with the machine politicians of Ohio.

A lawyer who will help to put election tally-sheet forgers in the penitentiary, all the more because they belong to his party, is not the kind of a man the wire-pullers like.

And yet the people's hats go up for such honesty and independence.

BOUNCE THE BRUTES.

Policeman CHAFFET, the drunken bully who abused a little crippled boy so shamefully, ought to be kicked out of the force that he disgraces.

Clubbing would be too good for him.

He should also be put under arrest and held to answer for the brutal assault. It is difficult, if not impossible, to prevent the occasional appointment of an unfit man on the force. But when he is found out he should be bounced without ceremony.

JAY GOULD'S LOT.

What's the good of $100,000,000 if a man can't sleep and is tortured by the neuralgia send besides?

JAY GOULD is not a man to excite envy in the mind of any honest fellow who enjoys the esteem of his acquaintances, sleeps well at night and has no "hungry nerves crying for food."

Nature has a way of evening things up, if the philosophic mind will only look for her compensations.

The monopoly organs and corporation tools that have been trying to foment trouble in the Knights of Labor are naturally disappointed at the peaceable meeting of District Assembly 49 yesterday. Laboring men must stand together or they will be stood on separately.

What's this? The Shah of Persia wants our Mayor! Oh! Pshaw—we can't spare him.

Among the Hotel Guests.

Ex-Gov. G. F. Drew, of Florida, is at the Astor House.
Commodore W. B. Schley, U. S. N., is stopping at the Grand Hotel.
Members of the Christopher Columbus Society, of Baltimore, are stopping at the Morton House.
St. James: Col. Thomas W. Donnell, of Virginia; H. L. Ayer, of Boston, and H. E. Ketchum, of Buffalo.
Miss Cora Johnson, of Vassar College, and ex-Senator Abraham Lansing, of Albany, have arrived at the Gilsey.
Fifth Avenue Hotel: Ex-Gov. Charles Foster, of Ohio; John Hodge, of Lockport, and W. T. Matlack, of Toronto.
Prince Roland Bonaparte, accompanied by his friends, Dr. De Beauvoir and Dr. Pearl, all of Paris, occupy several suites at the Hoffman House.
To-day's arrivals at the Hotel Dan are George D. Manning, of Minneapolis; J. E. Ryder, of C. O. Ryder, of Philadelphia; A. T. McDermott, of Boston.

At the Hotel Brunswick's book are the names of John H. Edwards, Detroit; J. Sanders Carr, Wyoming Territory, and N. C. Chapman, St. Louis.

At the Morton House are John Courant, of Syracuse;

John Russell, of Pittsburgh; A. W. Moore, of Boston; James Ross, of Chicago; G. H. Wheeler, of Boston.

Registered at the Union Square Hotel are N. W.

Parquhar, of Glasgow; H. Alfred Monaghan, of Ky West; H. A. Bennett, of St. Paul; W. B. Crocker, of Boston.

At the Windsor Hotel: H. K. Potter, prominent in Pittsburg, and J. G. Chapman, a St. Louis gentleman who would rather cruise in his yacht than attend the convention.

John L. Sullivan, pugilist and circus proprietor, of Boston, accompanied by Jim McKean and Sylvester Gordin, the early morning arrivals at the Sturtevant House.

Too Full for Utterance.

(From Judge.)
At a lecture by the celebrated B.
"How full he is of his subject," remarked a listener.

"Yes," was the criticism of another; "but how slow he is in emptying himself."

No Doubt of It.

(From Judge.)
In school:
Teacher—Supposing that eight of 'em should together have 48 apples, 32 peaches, 16 plums and 16 melons, what would each of you have?
Pupils (in chorus)—The stomach-ache.

IN "NINETEEN'S" ENGINE-ROOM.

James Bohan has been christened the Indian of the company.

Engineers Louis Helmer and Jas. Neally know their business.

George Babcock denies that he is going into the sewer business.

J. Washington Gallagher cannot well be over forty years old, for he is in the life-saving school. Yet he shouldered a musket at the outbreak of the war in 1861.

Assistant Foreman Harry Burnett resembles a church deacon, but he is not.

Joe A. Plaster is acknowledged to be the Adonis of the engine-house.

M. F. Powers is a skilful climber and can handle the pipe with any of them.

The same can be said of Archie Robinson.

William Merrill, an inhabitant of the company's house, is called the thirteenth member.

Capt. Dwyer is a good disciplinarian and everything in his engine-house is as neat as wax.

WORDINGS.

An odd tombstone will mark the grave of Adelbert Krieger, who died of apoplexy at the meeting of the Turners in Chicago a few days ago. It is a petrified limb of a tree, 10 inches in diameter and feet in length, which Mr. Krieger brought from California several years ago and which has since stood in his bedroom.

The Rev. W. J. Gaines, one of the newly elected Bishops of the African Methodist Episcopal Church, is a tall, fine-looking man, one of the most intellectual members of his race. In slave days he was owned by a brother of Gen. Robert Toombs. The only negro college in Georgia that is self-supporting is a monument to his executive ability.

Mrs. James K. Polk, widow of the President, recently presented to Miss Anna Ballantine, President of the Ladies' Department of Park University, a handsome Bible, which the young lady father gave to President Polk on the eve of his retirement from office. Mrs. Ballantine was pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, in Washington, which President and Mrs. Polk attended, and the book was highly prized by them.

For the most graphic account of the Democratic National Convention read THE EVENING WORLD.

In Imperial Circles.

Emperor Francis Joseph is the army in barracks. Duke—Yes, sire.

"The ammunition obtained?"

"Plenty, sire."

"The artillery?"

"All tested, sire."

"Are the fortresses manned?"

"Fully garrisoned, sire."

"Then everything is on a war footing?"

"Sire, yes."

"God be praised! Now I am prepared for peace."

"The Child Is Father of the Editor."

(From Judge.)

H. U. Meritt—I am very sorry, indeed, sir, that you have hurt your thumb. I'll never pin my paragraphs together that way again.

E. R. Hite—Don't fret about it—there's no harm done. When a mere boy I often had my fingers pricked by a chestnut-burr.

Wasn't Bothered by Business.

(From Judge.)

Wife—What worries you tonight, dear? You seem nervous.

Hubb—Oh, nothing. I guess it will pass off. Wife—Does your business prey upon your mind?

Hubb—Yes, indeed. I can't for the life of me figure out whether the New Yorks will win tomorrow or not.

An Emancipator Nears Store.

(From Judge.)

Miss Waldo—Have you any light rubbers, suitable for summer wear?

Dealer—Yes, miss; here are some sandals. This part protects the sole, and this little part going over the shoe.

"Is the over-sole. What a nice idea! I'll take three pairs, please."

A Fastidious Traveller.

(From Judge.)

Boggs (on board Pullman sleeper, coming to his friend's berth at 11 A. M.)—Not yet, Jagley? I hope you are not ill.

Jagley (despairingly)—I can't leave this berth, dear boy, till the end of the trip. My twelvelling-cup blew off on the private law suit, and I should perish with shame to be seen on the twin bare-headed.

Reminently Jaded.

(From Judge.)

Young Hyson—I see that Mrs. Berymore adheres to the English fashion in her receptions, and doesn't introduce people to one another.

Tom Bigone—Why, if any one of those people expected who the others were he'd never go near the house again.

Wrong End Foremost.

(From Judge.)

A child of five capes on Broadway a small dog wearing an enormous moustache.

"See, nurse, he's got his bustle put on the wrong way."

United Labor Ratification Meeting.

The United Labor party of the Second Assembly District will hold a meeting this evening at Reservoir Hotel, 415 West street, to indorse the principles of the United Labor party.

President and Vice-President of the United States. A resolution will be offered asking the Governor to sign the Ballot Reform bill, and a Vice-President and three members to the County General Committee will be elected.

First of a Series of Articles by Leaders of the Trades.

Status of the Tensorial Art in New York—The Average Wages and the Hours of Work—Very Few Strikes—The National Union and Its Aims—What the Organization Has Accomplished in Three and One-Half Years—The Trade Outlook.

(WRITTEN EXPRESSLY FOR THE EVENING WORLD.)

I have read, in common with my brethren of the tensorial art, THE EVENING WORLD's effort to bring about real reforms in the condition of the toiling masses who are the producers of all wealth, yet who have so little of this world's shekels to make them happy and contented.

WE OF THE BARBERS' UNION have also read the sketches under the title of "Best Known Barbers," "Struggles for Bread" and the admirable articles printed in THE EVENING WORLD in defense of the Saturday Half-Holiday law, with other matter relating to the wage-earners.
